ANGELOU PAYING SPECIAL TRIBUTE TO MOTHERS

Go ahead. Splurge. It's Mother's Day.

Though tickets may be pricy at $75 for the best seats in the house, the experience of seeing and hearing one of the world's most accomplished, loved and respected women writers may be one that you could never duplicate — especially for mom's day. Maya Angelou is coming to Cal State.

"A Tribute to Mothers Everywhere" is the theme for the May 10 event, which is being put together by the Phenix Information Center and the San Bernardino Symphony. Things start at 6:30 p.m. in Coussoulis Arena.

"Perhaps it was my maternal instincts," says Joann Roberts, owner of Phenix, a symphony board member and a mother of three herself, "but I felt compelled to produce this event in honor of mothers all over the Inland Empire."

Angelou will draw upon her own work and experiences as a mother during her presentation. A poet, playwright, director, producer, actress and civil-rights activist, she has written 10 best-selling books and many articles, earning in the process Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award nominations. But she also is widely known for her poem, On the Pulse of the Morning, delivered at the 1993 inauguration of President Bill Clinton.

The Southern California Young Artists Symphony will add a musical touch to the evening, playing classical pieces, and the Victors in Praise Dance Troupe also will perform.

The $75 ticket buys Angelou fans floor seating, one of Angelou's books and entrance to a private reception at the San Bernardino County Government Center following the event. Loge or chair back seating is $55 and includes a book as well, while general seating runs $40 and $25. About 300 complimentary tickets will go to underprivileged Inland Empire children and many community-based schools.

Major sponsors of Angelou's appearance include Stater Bros. Markets, the Riverside Press Enterprise, Bank of America, the Sinfonia Mexicana Society and Coussoulis Arena. For more information call (909) 381-5388 or Coussoulis Arena at Ext. 7360.

FUND PLANS GET HEARING

BY CYNTHIA PRINGLE
DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS

A half-million dollar reserve fund would be created while a $277,000 deficit would be eliminated based upon recommendations that the Budget Committee of the Strategic Planning Steering Council made to President Evans in its April 14 meeting.

Prior to the committee vote, with all but one in favor, the division vice presidents each presented summaries of how operations would be altered by baseline reductions at three levels, which were established to create a projected $350,000, $500,000 or $1.02 million reserve fund.

With this mid-level solution, the administration and finance division expects to leave some positions vacant, to discontinue some maintenance work and to phase out the motor pool. In addition some services in physical planning and development would be cut, such as furniture layouts and pre-design work, and response times are likely to slow for services in heating and air conditioning, accounting, payroll and the mailroom. The division would be reducing its baseline by about $223,000.

In university relations, a reduction in part-time help in athletics, eliminating directors' travel to their one professional development conference per year, outsourcing the Alumni Annual Fund Drive and minimizing the printing of the employee newsletter, while publishing it online, are solutions offered for the division's $37,000 cutback.

Vacant positions also would be held open in student services, where there might be a lateral transfer of personnel to keep up services. An adjustment of funds received from auxiliary operations and an elimination of the annual Summer Entertainment Series would net the division its share of reductions in the amount of $74,000.

The information and resources technology division would hold open the position of director for administrative computing and telecommunications, while reducing the baseline budget for telecommunications to meet a $149,000 cut.

Two special programs funded in academic affairs—the strategic planning process and the Alliance for Minorities Program—would be redirected for funding by the university as a whole. Release time for faculty who serve on the universitywide Retention, Promotion and Tenure (RPT) committee would be reduced, as would funds set aside for consultants, some emergency sick leave and vacation time. The reclassification of clerical positions resulted in additional savings. Some operations money and emergency funds that help schools balance their budgets also would be diminished under the plan to cut division expenses by $297,000.

The president is expected to respond to budget recommendations in phases as more information about state Legislature deliberations become known. The Budget Committee meets today to hear about census data information for spring quarter and any new details about the campus budget that are available.

Budget Options for FY 97-98

President's Recommendation:	Percent of Campus Budget:	Percent of Cut:
Academic Affairs	57.1%	38.1%
Student Services	13.0%	9.5%
Administration & Finance	14.0%	28.6%
University Relations	2.4%	4.7%
IRT	9.0%	19.1%
Central Accounts	4.5%

Presidential Search in Home Stretch

The second-tier committee that will be involved in interviewing about a half-dozen candidates for the university presidency is expected to meet May 1-2.

The members are Community representatives Richard Oliphant and Ray Quinto; alumnus Russ Bogh; administrators Lou Fernandez, Judith Rymer, John Conley, and

Peter Wilson; professors Michael Clarke, Sandra Kamusikiri, Joan Kritzberg, Dwight Sweeney, Paul Vicknair, Marcia Raines, Elsa Valdez and librarian Buckley Barrett; and staff representative Carmen Murillo-Moyeda. A student representative has yet to be appointed. Executive Vice Chancellor Molly Broad and Cal Poly, Pomona President Bob Suzuki also are on the panel.

The purpose of the second committee is to provide reaction about each candidate to the main search committee and to help market the San Bernardino campus to those in contention for the position.

Arrangements still are being made for the campus visit of the finalists, according to the CSU Chancellor's Office.

Handle on Education Schools' Future Gains Arlin Deanship

University of British Columbia educator Patricia Arlin will assume her position as the dean for the School of Education in August, announced academic affairs vice president, Louis Fernandez.

Arlin's strong administrative record and academic achievements stood out, says Fernandez.

"She has a vision for where schools of education are headed, what is needed to prepare for the next decade."

For the last 10 years Arlin has been the head of the department of educational psychology and special education at the University of British Columbia. She also has been on the faculty of the University of San Francisco and the University of North Carolina, as well as a consultant for many school boards and districts.

Her focus has been a "developmental psychology of education" approach. Valuing students' questions as much or more than their answers, Arlin says she believes in the "active engagement of students in their own learning."

Arlin did her bachelor's work in physics at Loyola University, her master's work in education at Fordham University, and earned her Ph.D. in educational psychology from the University of Chicago.

Civil-Rights on Former Black Panther's Mind For May 9 Talk

Eldridge Cleaver, who made his name in the 1960s as a civil-rights activist, is the featured speaker for a University Diversity Committee-sponsored event on May 9. Cleaver will speak in the Recital Hall at noon. A reception in the multicultural center will be held at 11 a.m.

Now an ordained minister and a successful entrepreneur, Cleaver appears regularly at colleges and universities around the nation. Cleaver's message today centers on love of country, exercising tolerance, and how to wipe out racism and ignorance.

Born in Arkansas in the late 1930s, Cleaver grew up in Los Angeles and joined the Black Panthers Party in the late 1960s. His ability to listen and his appetite for reading compelled Panther leaders to make him minister of information. The organization's ensuing growth was due in large part to his ability to gather and disseminate news of interest to members, the media and sympathizers. The Panthers also grew increasingly militant, eventually earning an FBI reputation as public enemy no. 1.

Cleaver's book, Soul on Ice, written before he joined the Black Panthers, is about the Black youth experience in White America. It earned national acclaim as a best-seller.

Gamma Lambda Earns Award

Gamma Lambda, the CSUSB chapter of Phi Beta Delta, was recently honored by the National Society for International Scholars with an "Outstanding Chapter Award." The award was for the West Region and presented at the Eleventh Annual Conference held in Washington, D.C. earlier this month.

Ralph Salmi, president-elect of the CSUSB chapter, accepted the award on behalf of his colleagues and chapter coordinator, Elsa Ochoa-Fernandez. Phi Beta Delta is the first honor society for faculty, staff and students dedicated to recognizing scholarly achievement in international education. Founded in 1986, the international organization boasts a membership of 104 chapters based at some of the nation's most prestigious universities.

This year's conference was dedicated to papers that focused on the internationalization of the curriculum, international business and education, intercultural and cross cultural communication, and internationalizing the curriculum.

Salmi's paper, "The Middle East and National Security Interests: Evaluating the Status of Middle East and Islamic Studies in the Nation's Largest University System," created lively discussion following its presentation.

Gamma Lambda has 119 active members; 74 are faculty and staff and 45 are students.

The chapter will hold an open forum April 30 in the Upper Commons. The noon-1:30 p.m. luncheon costs $5.50. After lunch and a short business meeting, Frances Berdan will talk about "seeking Mexico's past and present," and then Tamara Harsh will sing selections from such composers as Mozart, Schubert and Brahms. She will be accompanied by Larry McFatter on piano.

Call Fernandez at Ext. 5193 or e-mail at elsa.

Community Service

William Green (Political Science) took a class of political science students to see the Chinese navy ships on March 22 to witness firsthand Chinese power projection capabilities.

On March 14, George M. Georgiou (Computer Science) spoke to the High-12 International Club of San Bernardino about the Internet today and in the future.

Cynthia Linton and Stephen Wentworth (Learning Center) presented a workshop on designing a database system to track the use of student services at the Association of California College Tutorial and Learning Assistance Conference held in late March in San Diego. They compiled a notebook and have made it available to any who are interested.

A Note From Human Resources

PERS LONG-TERM CARE PROGRAM

PERS introduced its long-term care program in June of 1995. Due to the tremendous response and continued interest among members, CalPERS is offering another opportunity for members and their families to enroll in this important program. The 1997 application period will be offered through June 30.

The CalPERS Long-Term Care Program provides high-quality care, comprehensive coverage, and easy enrollment at a cost that is about 30 percent less than comparable plans. Now it's an even better value than before, offering important tax advantages. The benefits you receive are totally tax-free and your premiums may be tax deductible under certain circumstances.

To help members learn more about long-term care and the importance of this coverage, CalPERS will conduct two seminars at CSUSB on May 15, 1997 in the Student Union Events Center B&C. The first seminar is from 11 a.m.-noon and the second is from 4:30-5:30 p.m.

If you would like more information about the long-term care program or would like to receive an enrollment kit, call the PERS long-term care hotline at (800) 338-2244 anytime, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Don't miss this opportunity to enroll in this important program.

Water Works

Get out of the heat and into the water with a free scuba demonstration workshop being offered by extended education. Held May 10 from 9 a.m.-noon, the workshop is a preview of the extension course for beginning scuba divers. The workshop will meet in the small pool behind the P.E. building. Call Valerie Majjala to R.S.V.P. or for more information at Ext. 5976.

Considering Disabilities

Channel 4 weatherman Christopher Nance is the guest speaker at the annual disabilities awareness program on May 8. Nance himself was diagnosed with sickle cell anemia when he was three and has dedicated much of his time to reaching out to children facing life-threatening illnesses, parental abuse and hunger. One of his contributions has been to write children's books.

"Public Perceptions of Persons with Disabilities" is the title of this year's program. It takes place from 9-11:30 a.m. in PL-0013, the basement of the library addition. Attendees will get updates on adaptive equipment and the Americans with Disabilities Act. Call or e-mail Rowena Casis by May 5.

Women Athletes and Scholarships

The first walk to generate funds for women athletes' scholarships is coming June 7. Sponsors contribute $1 per lap for a minimum of 15 laps. Give the women student-athletes a boost by becoming a volunteer walker or sponsor. Call Ext. 5049 for more information.

Birth Announcement

Congratulations to Cindy (Housing Maintenance) and John (Events Scheduling) Hester, whose son, Joseph Allen, was born Jan. 29. Delivered at St. Bernardine's Hospital, he weighed 6 pounds 6 ounces and measured 18 inches at birth.

In Sympathy

Fook Fah "Minh" Liu (Computer Science, Emeritus) died March 28 after battling cancer. Originally a physics professor, Liu joined the Cal State faculty in 1970. He retired from Cal State in 1996.
